BUDGET PAYMENT PLAN

This plan allows a student to pay University fees in convenient monthly payments between May 1 and April 30. The cost of this plan is $100. There are no other fees or interest charges.

Infor

mainly on the applicant's financial need. As a general rule the primary financial responsibility lies with the student and parents. Therefore, in order to help determine student need and make it possible to grant aid fairly, the parents of aid applicants are asked to file Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). On the basis of this financial information, the University is able to determine the difference between University costs and the amount a student and parents can reasonably be expected to provide. This difference is defined as need. If a student is independent according to the Federal Department of Education definition, the student would submit a financial statement without parental information .

GRANTS

The following grants (non-repayable funds) offered at Concordia are based primarily on the undergraduate student's demonstrated financial need.

PELL GRANTS

A federal Pell Grant provides funds to help pay for higher education. Awards range from $200 to $5,350 per year. The actual amount the student receives depends on the financial information reported on the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA), whether a full-time or part-time student, and the cost of education.

An application must be filed annually thr ough the Office of Financial Aid, Concordia University W /p4ut (þÿ G R A N T B(þÿ .)>>g>

SUPPLEMENTAL EDUCATIONAL OPPORTUNITY GRANT (SEOG)

A Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant (FSEOG) is a grant to help pay for education after high school. It is for undergraduates only and it does not have to be paid back.

Awards range up to $2,000, depending on need, the availability of FSEOG funds, and the amount of other aid the student is receiving.

FAFSA must be filed annually, are not automatically renewed, and should be made through the Office of Financial Aid, Concordia University Wisconsin.

CONCORDIA UNIVERSITY GRANT-SCHOLARSHIPS

Through the generosity of many friends of Concordia University, numerous endowments have been established. The earnings of which financially assist students on the basis of merit and/or need. These grants and scholarships range from $100 to $4000 per year. Additional information about the nature of the endowments and program eligibility is available from the Financial Aid Department.

CONGREGATIONAL GRANTS, The Lutheran Church - Missouri Synod

In an indirect way, your congregation is assisting you with your educational expenses. Concordia receives financial support from The Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod of which your congregation is a contributing member. Hence, your tuition at Concordia is about one thousand dollars less than the tuition at most independent colleges.

In addition, many congregations directly assist their students with some educational expenses. Some students receive as much as $2,000 from their congregation each year; however, the average amount received is closer to $700.

Concordia encourages you to inquire about possible assistance through your pastor.

DISTRICT GRANTS

Most districts of The Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, through their Board of Student Aid and/or Recruitment, provide grants to students preparing for a church vocation. Grants, and on occasion loans, are awarded in amounts ranging from $100 to $1000 per year. The contact person and address for your district may be obtained from Concordia, your pastor, or the Lutheran Annual. Application deadlines vary by district.

Concordia participates in the Federal Work Study Program, which enhances the opportunities for employment.

Army Reserve Officer Training Course

Concordia University students have the opportunity to fully participate in the Army Reserve Officer Training Course (AROTC) program. Students in the program attend AROTC courses at Marquette University. This program prepares Concordia University students for commissions in the U.S. Army, Army National Guard, or the U.S. Army Reserve.

There are two program options a four- or two-year program. The four-year program is divided into two phases: the basic course (taken during the freshman and sophomore years) and the advanced course (taken during the junior and senior years). The two-year program is designed for students at four-year institutions who did not take AROTC during the first two years of college, students entering a postgraduate course of study, or students who have prior military service. Students enrolling in the advanced course who have not taken the basic course will begin their training with a five-week paid summer session at Fort Knox called the Leader's Training Course or a one-week program held at Marquette called Accelerated Cadet Commissioning Training.

The Army offers a number of scholarship opportunities to Concordia University students enrolled in the ROTC program. There are two-year, three-year, and four-year active duty scholarships as well as two-year U.S. Army Reserve and National Guard scholarships available. These scholarships are awarded on a competitive basis by the Department of Military Science at Marquette University and can be applied to tuition expenses at Concordia University. In addition to the scholarships, all contracted students in the advanced course receive a $250-400 monthly stipend.

Prospective students interested in the Army ROTC program are encouraged to visit the Army ROTC website www.armyrotc.com, the Marquette Army ROTC website www.mu.edu/rotc/army/html, or contact our Enrollment and Scholarship Officer at Marquette University (414) 288-2046.

COOPERATIVE PROGRAMS

Concordia University Wisconsin enables students to enrich their academic preparation by taking courses at other higher education institutions with which CUW has a written agreement. Consult the Registrar's Office for eligibility and guidelines.

The Communication Program

OUR MISSION: To help students in Concordia's Communication Department grow in their understanding and application of communication skills for service to Christ in the Church and the world.

COMMUNICATION CAREERS: The Communication Department prepares graduates for media, non-profit, government or corporate jobs. A listing of recent graduates' career placements is available on the Communication Department website

MAJORS: Students majoring in Communication earn a total of 39-40 credits in one of four majors including Mass Communication, Public Relations, Multimedia Communication or Business Communication. Students majoring in Communication take 18 credits in the Communication Core and 21-22 credits in the major they choose The Communication Core emphasizes writing, speaking, interpersonal, and small-group communication skill Students will apply theoretical and practical knowledge in a senior seminar project and by participating in a 3-4 credit internship.

The Business Communication Major/Minor is for students that want a non-financial communication-skills career in nonprofit or corporate organizations; it is not a Business Major or part of the Business program and does not require accounting, economics, finance, or money management. Students pursuing "people skills" jobs that require good commnication can gain proficiency in team building, managing conflict, interviewing, negotiating, writing clear and persuasive messages, giving presentations, and using communication to motivate employees and satisfy customers.

The Mass Communication Major/Minor provides a broad-based liberal arts approach to better understanding and using radio, television, film, video, and print media. An emphasis is placed on giving students skills in writing and editing skills across the various media.

The Public Relations Major/Minor gives students skills pertaining to careers in public relations, event planning, news editing, and image management. Web design and journalistic skills are developed. Students write articles for the school's newspaper, The Beacon.

Finally, our Multimedia Major/Minor challenges students with innovative technology associated with film and video production, animation, and multimedia production . Student-made productions showcase the marketable skills learned in this hands-on, highly practical major.

EXERCISE PHYSIOLOGY MAJOR 49 crs.

The Exercise Physiology major at Concordia prepares students to understand how the body responds and adapts to the stress of physical exertion. A thorough knowledge of exercise physiology enables one to understand the physiological mechanisms responsible for the acute and chronic response to physical activity. Students can apply this knowledge to activity recommendations for individuals in prevention and rehabilitation programs or develop training programs for athletes .

Coursework in the Exercise Physiology major includes a strong foundation in the sciences plus significant hands-on laboratory work assessing cardiovascular, neuromuscular, and pulmonary responses in Concordia's Exercise Physiology Laboratory. An emphasis is on clinical exercise physiology and the relation of exercise to the prevention and rehabilitation of chronic disease. Students are encouraged to pursue internship experiences, to prepare for national certifications through exercise physiology-related organizations, and when possible, to participate in state and national meetings associated with exercise physiology and healthy behaviors.(i.e. American College of Sports Medicine).

PHILOSOPHY MINOR 24 crs.

Philosophy encourages: clear and critical thinking; and a rational approach to problem-solving using conceptual analysis, dialogue and argument. Due to the interdisciplinary character of philosophy, the minor is also a valuable complement to most majors (in particular, Art, History, English, Natural Science, Theology, Psychology, Social Work).

The emphasis on the careful statement and evaluation of arguments makes a philosophy minor good preparation for those entering the legal profession. Society needs individuals who are able to communicate clearly, to evaluate and construct arguments for or against a viewpoint, and to question received ideas. A minor in philosophy aims to satisfy this need.

The Philosophy minor requires 24 credits total. Students must take 4 required courses and then select 4 other philosophy courses. Students may double-dip one class: one of the required classes for philosophy minors can also count as the Philosophical Foundations class in the core. Minors or majors in Philosophy are required to complete their core requirements in Theology as follows:

REL 201 The Old Testament (Bible Content) REL XXX A theology elective
REL 204 Biblical Theology (Christian Doctrine)

POLITICAL SCIENCE MAJOR

The Political Science major helps students understand how the invitation to love thy neighbor can be carried out in the political realm. To be active politically is more than just pursuing narrow, self-centered aims; it must also mean working to improve the lives of others in the community, and the political science major is uniquely positioned to develop students who will see such service as part of their vocation. Graduates with a political science major will not only understand government and ways to affect change, but their actions and attitudes will be informed by the teachings of Christ.

The Political Science major consists of 36-39 credits, including 30-33 required credits and credits that are chosen from a list of approved electives. All students are required to complete an internship of at least 3 credits at the local, state, or national political level. Majors will complete a two-course sequence of Experimental Psychology (PSY 245) and Senior Seminar (PSY 490), culminating in a thesis. Students must also complete a minor.

THE PRE

Pre-seminary students are strongly encouraged to include two majors in their studies: theological languages and pre-seminary studies. These majors are designed to prepare students for the seminary competency examinations in the Old Testament, New Testament, Christian Doctrine, Greek, and Hebrew. These majors also include broader liberal arts studies in German or Latin, communication, writing, social science, and philosophy, all of which are helpful for theological study on a graduate level. In special cases, students in the pre-seminary program may choose other majors and minors, but must always include at least a minor in theological languages.

Application for Entry into the Pre-Seminary Program

Since the public ministry of Word and Sacrament is an office of the Church of Christ, it demands individuals exhibiting the highest level of talent, personal knowledge, aptitude, skill, and Christian character. For this reason the following criteria have been established for acceptance into the Pre-Seminary Program of Concordia University Wisconsin. Application is generally made in the second semester of the sophomore year.

TEACHER COLLOQUY PROGRAM (LCMS)

The Teacher Colloquy is designed for members of the Missouri Synod who have received their teacher training at a non-Synodical college and would like to be certified for teaching in schools of the Synod The program is available online through the Concordia University Education Network, CUEnet.

SCHOOL OF HUMAN SERVICES

The School of Human Services houses the following undergraduate (UG) and graduate (G) professional and pre-professional programs in the health and human services: Nursing (UG/G), Occupational Therapy (G), Physical Therapy (G) and pre-Physical Therapy (UG), Radiology Technology (UG), Rehabilitation Sciences (UG/G), Social Work (UG) and Medical Assistant (Certificate).

NURSING PROGRAM - BACHELOR OF SCIENCE

The purpose of the baccalaureate program in nursing prepares graduates to function as beginning practitioners in a variety of health-care and community settings and to work collaboratively with other disciplines in assisting individuals, families, groups and communities to achieve their full health potential. The baccalaureate program provides a broad foundation in liberal arts as well as nursing education. Opportunities to enhance personal growth and promote professional development, guided by Christian principles, helps build the foundation for continued professional growth. Many clinical agencies sites and community are incorporated into the learning experience throughout the programs.

The nursing programs were accredited by the Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education in 2004 for 10 years. Concordia University Wisconsin (CUW) has offered a baccalaureate degree in nursing since 1982. The Nursing Resource Center features a simulation laboratory using a Human Patient Simulator.

In May of 1991, Concordia graduated the first group of students in the Bachelor of Science in Nursing track for R.N.s. In the Spring of 1998 the first Master of Science in Nursing Class graduated. The BSN-RN and Master in Nursing programs have E-Learning and on-campus options. The Doctorate of Nursing Practice (DNP) began the first cohort of students in the Fall 2008.

Traditional High school students must submit evidence of adequate preparation for college from a regionally accredited high school with a minimum GPA of 2.75.

Radiologic Technology Major

PROGRAM OVERVIEW

The registered radiologic technologist (radiographer) utilizes knowledge of human anatomy and disease, mathematics, physics and operation of radiation-producing equipment for diagnostic purposes. Radiologic technologists may be employed in various health care settings, i.e. hospitals or clinics, industry, business, research, administration or education

The major is intended to be a four-year course of study leading to a Bachelor of Science degree. The program is jointly sponsored and is structured such that core required of the university and pre-clinical components are conducted by Concordia University during the first 2 years, while clinical components are conducted at Joint Review Commission on Education in Radiologic Technology accredited programs for the second 2 years Successful completion of competency requirements within the clinical program must be achieved prior to graduation.

CLINICAL ASSIGNMENTS

Students should be aware that the program requires clinical coursework off-CUW campus for a period of 24 months. Clinical coursework is usually 8 hours per day and can range from a minimum of 24 to a maximum of 40 hours a week. Clinical rotations are not limited to one site. Vacation periods are scheduled intermittently during the year by the clinical faculty.

ADMISSION REQUIREMENTS

Applicants to the Radiologic Technology Program are expected to fulfill the University admission requirements. In addition, two years of high school math and one year of high school physics are recommended. Acceptance is not automatic and is based on successful completion of all pre-professional coursework with a minimum cumulative GPA of 2.8.

Admission to the Radiologic Technology Program is limited. No more students will be admitted into the program than can be accommodated in the pre-clinical and clinical coursework. Students must apply for clinical admission by the end of the first semester of their sophomore year. Applications for admission to the program are available through the program director.

TUITION

Students in the Radiologic Technology Program will pay CUW tuition during the pre-clinical and clinical aspects of the program. Students in the clinical aspect of the program do not have to pay any overload tuition charges. A percentage of the tuition will be given to the clinical program. Thus, students who are receiving the Emeritus (full) Scholarship or are full time CUW employees (tuition-free) will need to pay tuition during the clinical aspect of the program.

Social Work Major

Social work is a profession, as well as a vocation. Social work can challenge you and help you gain the skills and knowledge to make a difference for others. Its goal is to improve the overall functioning and well-being of all people. Yet, social workers have a special concern for the poor, the marginalized, and the vulnerable. Social work is both an art and science. It builds on the knowledge base and skills of social work, the social sciences, as well as the liberal arts. Social work majors have an opportunity to gain "hands-on" experience through internships (field placements) in a wide variety of settings, such as criminal justice systems, child and family services, mental health settings, or hospitals. Likewise, social work is a profession of possibilities, both in terms of career paths and in the ways that clients can be helped.

MISSION

The mission of the Social Work Program is to prepare graduates for beginning generalist social work practice, within the context of faith, service, and social justice.

Generalist social work practice means that social work majors learn how to help others in many broad-based ways. They may assist individuals, families, groups, communities, and organizations in a variety of social work or related settings. Generalist social work practice includes helping people from a strengths perspective, which means recognizing, supporting, and building on the innate capabilities of all human beings.

The mission of the Social Work Program includes the importance of a faith perspective that provides the support, energy, and commitment to make a difference in the lives of others. The mission inspires majors to use the force of their individual

Students must be officially accepted for Upper Division Status by the Director of the Social Work Program. Students need to apply for Upper Division Status during the spring semester of their sophomore year and begin their Upper Division SW Foundation Courses in the fall of their junior year.

Education I and SW 427 Field Education II. In conjunction with Field Education, students are required to enroll in SW 328 Field Seminar I and SW 428 Field Seminar II. Participation in the seminar is to be concurrent with field education . The seminar format will provide for the integration of field experience with classroom learning through discussion and assignments

APPLICATION PROCESS FOR FIELD EDUCATION
Students are placed in a variety of agencies, commensurate with their expressed desires and educational needs. The placement process begins with the completion of an application. Students are required to apply for field in the second semester of their junior year.
